Daughter of God, Conquer the World

Deep inside, we all feel that we were created for more. But our yearning is often concealed. Inka Hammond gives women the courage to be inspired by God's tremendous possibilities and to let him show them what plans he has in store for them. But every daughter of God must take risks and accept setbacks. How good it is when they have a "dream team" at their side that can help God's dream become reality for themselves and for this world!

- Sequel to the best-seller "Daughter of God"
- A strong social media presence #tochtergottes

Inka Hammond

lives together with her husband Jeremy and their four children near Augsburg. The bestselling author blogs about the liberty that is possible in Jesus and heads the organisation "Free Indeed" (www.free-indeed.de) together with her husband.

Inka Hammond

Daughter of God, Conquer the World

From dream to calling.

From calling to adventure

Two-colour printing,
softcover with gate-folded covers,
13.5 x 21.5 cm, 240 pages

Nr. 226.904, ISBN: 978-3-417-26904-8

Held in His Hands

It had not been her plan to raise her children alone. But after her husband's death, Elisabeth Bühler-Astfalk experienced that God was still with her, in the midst of her turbulent everyday routine with four children without a daddy. In 40 encouraging devotionals she describes her own experiences and tenderly explains how God can encounter us just when we need him the most. An invitation to put our trust in our Father in Heaven – again and again.

- 40 devotionals full of authentic experience
- Market niche: the first devotional book for lone parents

Elisabeth Bühler-Astfalk lives in Zurich, Switzerland. She has been a widow since 2007 and has four (almost) adult children. The scientific journalist is active in accompanying people in mourning (www.buehrer.care).

When in Doubt, for God

What if God is different from the way I want him to be? What if the Bible does not reach my heart and the church congregation does not become a home to me? Malte Detje shows us the undeniable truth: God's heart beats lovingly for his children even when we do not feel his presence. It is firmly founded on what God says about us. We are swathed in his mercy. A book that gives us security in fundamental matters of faith.

- Genuine hope in fundamental matters of faith
- With a preface by Prof. Michael Herbst

Malte Detje, born 1987, is pastor of a Lutheran congregation in Hamburg. His heart beats for the liberating message of the Reformation, which is why he regularly gives lectures on this topic.

Malte Detje

When in Doubt, for God

How we can stay close to God when we are not borne along by faith

Hardcover, 13.5 x 21.5 cm, 208 pages

Nr. 226.947, ISBN: 978-3-417-26947-5

Child Victim

Up until her 13th year of life, Astrid Dauster suffered severe maltreatment – from her father and other members of a satanist lodge. When he died, she experienced trauma amnesia. It was only 30 years later that memories came back to Astrid, including recollections of supernatural encounters with Jesus as a shepherd; this gave her strength and deep spiritual revelations. The psychiatrist Dr. W. Meili examines Astrid Dauster's memories in a psychological and spiritual context.

- Unusual, like William P. Young's "The Shack"
- An authentic insider report on the satanist scene

Astrid Dauster,
born 1955, worked in the church and is active on the extended executive board of the near-death experience network "Netzwerk Nahtoderfahrung e.V."

Walter Meili,
born 1957, is a specialist in psychiatry and psychotherapy in Basel, Switzerland, and author of the book "Phänomen Nadtod".

The Bullerbü Complex

We all know them – the stories of Bullerbü by Astrid Lindgren. Stories full of happy children and constantly relaxed parents. But today, reality looks different for many people. People struggle and toil to achieve an intact world à la Bullerbü. Lars Mandelkow pointedly shows us that this is not at all necessary: we do not have to constantly pursue an ideal. We may experience freedom through God's mercy – freedom to take a more relaxed view of things.

- Exposes false ideals of modern families
- Humorously and pointedly written

Lars Mandelkow, born 1971, currently lives with his family in Norway. He is a lecturer in psychology at a Christian university. Previously, he was active for a long period in Schleswig-Holstein as a couples therapist, speaker and supervisor.

The Sermon on the Mount from the Jewish Perspective

Christians have been reading the Sermon on the Mount for 2000 years, but there is something that many often forget: Jesus was a Jew. And he was speaking above all to Jews when he interpreted the challenging theses from the Old Testament in an entirely new way. The Messianic Jew Anatoli Uschomirski presents to Christian readers a new view of what Jesus really meant with his provocative statements. Surprising, with spiritual depth and a passionate voice for the teachings of Jesus.

- Surprising insights on key texts
- Discover Jewish roots of the faith

Anatoli Uschomirski

born 1959, grew up in a Jewish family in the Ukraine and came to Germany in 1992. He works for “Evangeliumsdienst für Israel”, founded a Messianic Jewish congregation and gives presentations throughout Europe.

Study Bible of Biblical Prophecy

God fulfils his word! The Bible is full of promises and prophetic words. Many of them have already been fulfilled, although the Bible usually reports this in an entirely different place. This study Bible builds a bridge from the promises to their fulfilment and helps the reader to discover fascinating connections. Numerous further links are forged between the Old and New Testaments.

- A fascinating journey of discovery
- An entirely new study Bible concept

Dr. theol. Ulrich Wendel

was a pastor in two evangelical free churches and a lecturer for New Testament at Evangelische Hochschule Tabor. He is editor of the magazine "Faszination Bibel" and theological programme manager at SCM R.Brockhaus.

The Bible in Two Hours

So many stories, so many people, so many details in the Bible ... what is the common thread?

Two Bible experts have made a selection of the most important texts of the Bible. Connections and transitions reveal the overall picture. The reader is taken along on an entertaining journey from Adam and Eva to God's new world. A brief overview of the really essential texts.

The texts of the Bible are given in the "Neues Leben" translation.

- Easy access to the Book of Books
- Also as a present for those with no church connections

Jolima and the Road to Evergreen

Little Jolima from Evergrey hears the call of a messenger from the Kingdom of Evergreen and bravely sets out on the long journey there. After many adventures, she arrives at her destination with the help of a little dove and finds a new home in the King of Evergreen's palace, with a new dress, much joy and coloured flowers; she is made to feel at home.

A strong "daughter of God" message for girls: nobody is too small to courageously follow God's call.

- A spiritually deep story from the best-selling author Inka Hammond
- A picture book for all ages, beautifully illustrated

Wrought Iron Summer

Around 1860: Like fire and water – so different are the life plans of the noble Pauline von Velendorff, known as Nini, and the banker Jakob Kemper. But Nini is in financial difficulties and enters into a marriage of convenience with a heavy heart. The growing feelings threaten to be stifled, however, because Jakob is sceptical of her faith and Nini longs for meaningful tasks rather than a life in a “golden cage”.

- Fascinating: from the room meeting to the free church
- The well-known author's first historical novel

Ursula Schröder works freelance as a PR writer and novelist. She is a member of a Protestant free church in North Rhine-Westphalia and is actively involved in her hometown's citizens' social centre. She is married and has three adult children.

Yearning of the Heart

Rome, 95 AD: It is all happening at once – a planned attack goes wrong and the mother of the four-year-old Julia must flee with her daughter. Several years later: Julia, who is now called Celia, can no longer remember all this. The world in Larisa with her parents, a shoemaker and his wife, seems intact. It is only when her stepfather is almost killed during the persecution of Christians that Celia gradually begins to understand what terrible things are happening in Rome.

- Thrilling: Rome in the days of the persecution of Christians
- Vivid: Conveys topics of faith

Renate Ziegler, born 1965, works as a vicarage secretary. She is married, has two children and lives in Rottenburg am Neckar. She has been fascinated by the culture, life and history of the Roman Empire ever since her early youth.
